Abiogenesis Wikipedia

Abiogenesis or informally the origin of life is the natural process by which life has arisen from non living matter such as simple organic compounds While the details of this process are still unknown the prevailing scientific hypothesis is that the transition from non living to living entities was not a single event but a gradual process of increasing complexity that involved molecular

Electromotive force Wikipedia

The question of how batteries galvanic cells generate an emf is one that occupied scientists for most of the 19th century The seat of the electromotive force was eventually determined by Walther Nernst to be primarily at the interfaces between the electrodes and the electrolyte Molecules are groups of atoms held together by chemical bonds and these bonds consist of electrical forces
